

A Purpose Forward Sub-Investment

The Karat School Project

Where Women Rise, Communities Thrive

At Purpose Forward, we invest where every dollar moves humanity forward—where impact is measurable, dignity is restored, and opportunity expands.

One mission especially close to our hearts is simple yet profound: advancing the education, equality, and empowerment of girls and women—at every stage of life.

Across the world, millions of women still face barriers that quiet their brilliance.

In places like Côte d'Ivoire, long-held traditions continue to limit access to education, independence, and leadership. Too many girls never enter a classroom—trapped in cycles of poverty that dim the promise of families and entire communities.

Through our network, we found a powerful ally rewriting that story: the Karat School Project (KSP)—a movement turning possibility into progress through education and empowerment.

- KSP Africa builds and sustains schools for both boys and girls—because equality begins when everyone learns together. These schools also become community hubs where women gain practical skills, start small enterprises, and discover the confidence to lead.
- KSP U.S., based in the Bay Area, fuels this mission through awareness, funding, and local action—providing meals, essentials, and education support so children can focus, grow, and dream without hunger or fear.

Together, these efforts prove that progress has no borders. Real change begins with nourishment, life essentials, safety, and learning—and ripples outward through every life it touches.

At Purpose Forward, we measure success not just in schools built or students enrolled, but in Human Return on Investment (H-ROI)—the expanding impact that lifts families, strengthens communities, and transforms generations.

We are proud to stand beside the Karat School Project as part of our larger commitment to human dignity, learning, and opportunity.

Together, we're turning purpose into progress—bridging continents, breaking cycles, and building a world where every girl can rise and every community can thrive.
